

David Wilson, Director of the Institute of Public Policy and Programme Leader for Economic Development

David's recent doctoral research activities include international review team membership for the Metropolitan Auckland Project; research team leader for 'Sustainable Economic Development in the Kaipara Harbour Region' and for 'Business Social Investment Activity in New Zealand'.

David is a member of the EDANZ (Economic Developed Association New Zealand) professional development committee and secretary of the Auckland Regional Economic Development Association. He has an extensive business background including sales and marketing, product and strategic business unit management, as well as owning and operating his own successful retail business for 17 years.